As part of the nomination, we will need your name, a brief bio (how long you have been in the parish, what organizations you are involved with...etc) and state what you hope to achieve by being a part of the Parish Council. After all nominations have been received, the Parish Council will vote on six candidates. Those six names will be placed in a bowl and after prayer; three names will be drawn to become the new Parish Council members. Parish Council members serve three year terms. Please consider this opportunity to serve your parish.

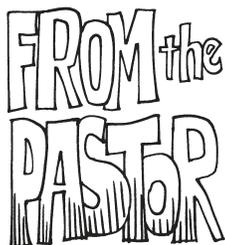

Why Are They Called "PEW CARDS"?

The short answer is: because they are meant to be left in the pews so that everyone can use them. In a couple of weeks the new translation of the Mass will be implemented in all English speaking countries. In order to prepare for this change, we have placed 300 cards containing the Mass responses and prayers in the pews to make it easier for people to adjust to the changes. However, I failed to ask people to LEAVE them in the pews and over 70 cards have already disappeared. Please return the cards that you have taken. We will need these cards for the next year or so until we become accustomed to the changes. The prayers and responses can also be found in the new Missalettes that will be in the pews and if you would like to make your own "Pew Card" you can download a copy at: <http://old.usccb.org/romanmissal/examples.shtml>. Other free downloads can be found by doing a search on Google for "liturgical changes downloads" (or anything similar).

Christmas is Coming....

Because Christmas falls on a Sunday this year there will be some changes in the Christmas Mass schedule. In order to avoid confusion, Masses on Sunday, December 25, (Christmas Day) will remain at the normal Sunday Mass times of: 7:30, 9:30 and 11:30 am. On Christmas Eve, the Vigil Masses will be at 4:00 and 10:00 pm. The 4:00 pm Vigil Mass is VERY popular and there have been a lot of requests to move the Midnight Mass to 10:00 pm so that more people would be able to attend. We will see how it works this year.

Fr. Mike

Parish Council

By the end of the year, the terms of three of our Parish Council members will come to an end and we will be looking for three new members to replace them. Over the next few weeks we will be accepting nominations for new members of the Parish Council. If you feel called to help develop the vision and direction of our parish please submit your nomination to the parish office by December 4th.

Treasure The Family

In this Sunday's readings we are called to embrace the priceless gift of faith along with the many other gifts and talents the Lord has given us to build a strong family and a strong Church. All the Baptized are called to spread the Good News of Jesus Christ to all people in all circumstances but many of us do not know where to start or how to do this. Our family is a great place to start. When we, as a family celebrate and appreciate the amazing treasure of faith through prayer, reaching out to those in need, good communication and spending time together, God will use us to bring His Light into this world. When conversations replace yelling, prayer replaces excuses, sharing replaces greed, working together replaces isolation and comforting replaces blame we will begin to fan into flame the Light of Christ in our family. When we bring our family to Mass and receive the Sacraments of Eucharist and Reconciliation frequently our Light will only become brighter and stronger. This might sound impossible but with God all things are possible. Enjoy the treasure of family and invite the Light of Christ to guide your family.

Thank You

I would like to thank everyone for the well wishes, calls, cards, visits and especially prayers after my recent accident. I am surely blessed as my injuries could have been much worse, but am also blessed because of the wonderful "family" I have here at OLQP. Your concern for my well-being was very encouraging to me, and although I found I didn't have "wings" (or a brain!) - I do have many angels in my life who showed how caring and special our parish is.

Thank you and God Bless you all!

Parish Corner

St. Vincent de Paul

We as members of St. Vincent de Paul are a group of Catholic volunteers. We are the people in the middle. We receive donations from you (generous people and organizations). These donations allow us to give assistance to those in need within our parish boundaries.

We believe this giving and receiving is filled with the power of God; and we believe this giving and receiving makes real and visible the love of God in our parish.

We understand that our small assistance is just that, only a small part of what they may need. They see that someone cares and will listen to their problems. We also direct them to other sources of assistance as the situation requires.

St. Vincent De Paul

Our works are not so much what we do, but rather what we are. Our works are not something we do for God, nor even with God. Our works are something we allow God to do to us.

Thanks To Our Sponsors

*"Well done, my good and faithful servant...
 Come, share your master's joy."*

Matthew 25:21

The master's words of praise and welcome for the servant who used his talents well are the same words that each of us hopes to hear when we meet God face to face. "Well done, my good and faithful servant...Come, share your master's joy." We use our "talents" well when we live simply, make God a priority in our lives and share our gifts with others.

Thirty Fourth Sunday in Ordinary Time
Christ the King Cycle A

THEME: The journey ends.

On the Feast of Christ the King, the long Church year comes to an end. Throughout the year, in the Season of Advent, we looked longingly to experience the presence of God in our lives. In Christmas we celebrated that presence of God in our midst. In Lent and Easter we considered and experienced again the great events of our salvation, and throughout the Season of Ordinary Time, we worked at living our commitment to our loving God who saves us. How have we done? At the end of our yearly journey with Jesus have we grown in our faith? Have we lived our relationship with our God any better? Are we on the way?

THE READINGS:

FIRST READING: Ezekiel 34:11-12, 15-17

A key image in ancient Israel's understanding of God is the image of the king. God, for them, was the Great King of covenant traditions, the king who entered into a mutual relationship with His people. Israel's kings themselves were conceived of as servants of the Great Overlord, the anointed ones whose primary role was to shepherd God's people. In the first reading, from Ezekiel, that image of shepherd is applied to the very notion of God's sovereignty.

The whole notion of shepherd kings was radical in the ancient world. This is not an image of power, domination and subjugation, but of leadership and care. Ezekiel's words would provide a powerful impetus to the restoration of Israel after the Exile, a restoration that did not see the revival of earthly kings, but celebrated the kingship of God and gave rise to messianic hopes, hopes that centered on God's active involvement with his people. And yet, Ezekiel's image was not simply that of a benevolent herdsman; the sheep were responsible to follow and the shepherd-king would judge his flock. He will seek out the lost, but they can choose to follow back or not.

SECOND READING: I Corinthians 15:20-26, 28

Eschatological imagery has intrigued humanity from the earliest times. There is a fascination with dark imagery, with consideration of the end of the world in a complete overthrowing of the present order to establish the Kingdom that Jesus came to announce in power. Paul, in his First Letter to the Corinthians, seems to suggest something different. For Paul, the focus is resurrection, eternal life with God. Jesus Christ is the first. Who He was and how He lived made a difference; He changed people, changed them through His ultimate act of sacrifice for the benefit of all. He is the "first fruits" of resurrected life. The "end" comes when all earthly power and authority that stands against God's will for His people, that stands against God's Kingdom, is eliminated. What Paul suggests is that this end comes not as some fiery cataclysm, but when those who have responded to and followed Jesus have lived in such a way that they have changed others, that they have contributed to changing the focus away from earthly power and authority to the Kingdom of God.

When the Kingdom of Peace is finally established, then Christ will return and present the created order, as it is intended to be, to God His Father.

For us, then, the Feast of Christ the King is a celebration of hope, hope that what we have accomplished in the past year has moved the world closer to God's kingdom, hope that what we will do in the upcoming liturgical year will continue the progress of humanity towards God.

GOSPEL READING: Matthew 25:31-46

The Gospel reading is Matthew's vision of the Last Judgment. This is the last of the five great discourses in Matthew's Gospel and sums up Matthew's basic teaching about life in the Church, the believing community. The basis for judgment is simply this: how we treat each other is, in fact, how we treat Jesus Christ. Our means of expressing our relationship with God is how we live our relationship with other people. This is the underlying theme of Matthew's entire Gospel.

The imagery of the Last Judgment scene again centers on the shepherd. The implication is that, in our lives with each other, we are cared for, we have all that we need to live well, we can follow. But there always remains the choice to stray, to flounder, to wander off, to ignore our fellow travelers along the way.

What builds the Kingdom of God? How do we acclaim Jesus Christ as our King? How do we commit ourselves to this kingdom, to this way of life? The Jesus of Matthew's Gospel is clear – by how we treat others, by whether or not we meet the needs of others, by whether or not we live the principles of justice, compassion and peace.

Who is King in my life? How I live with others, how I treat others will reveal the answer.

FOR REFLECTION:

- At the end of my yearly journey with Jesus, have I grown in faith, in love, in commitment? Have I lived my relationship with God any better? Am I more solidly on the way?
- In my relationship with God, do I see God more as a domineering overlord and a caring shepherd? On my part, am I subservient to God or a skittish, dependent sheep? Where is my partnership with God in these images?
- What is my understanding of the "end." Do I envision a violent end to the world and a terrifying judgment of humanity, of me, by a just and fearsome God? Do I envision a peaceful transition into the Kingdom of heaven? Do I simply not know? In the end, what do I hope for and, in light of my hopes, what difference does my vision of the end make?
- Do I really believe that how I treat others is, in fact, how I treat Jesus Christ? Is my relationship with Jesus really so dependent on my relationships with others?
- What builds the Kingdom of God? How do we acclaim Jesus Christ as our King? How do we commit ourselves to this kingdom, to this way of life?

Rainbow Bridge

Just this side of heaven is a place called Rainbow Bridge.

When an animal dies that has been especially close to someone here, that pet goes to Rainbow Bridge. There are meadows and hills for all of our special friends so they can run and play together. There is plenty of food, water and sunshine, and all our friends are warm and comfortable.

All the animals who had been ill are restored to health and vigor. Those who were hurt or maimed are made whole and strong again, just as we remember them in our dreams of days gone by.

The animals are happy and content, except for one small thing, they each miss someone very special to them, who had to be left behind. They all run and play together, but the day comes when one suddenly stops and looks into the distance.

His bright eyes are intent. His eager body quivers.

Suddenly he begins to run from the group, flying over the green grass, his legs carrying him faster and faster.

You have been spotted, and when you and your special friend finally meet, you cling together in joyous reunion, never to be parted again. The happy kisses rain upon your face; your hands again caress the beloved head, and you gaze once more into the trusting eyes of your pet, so long gone from your life but never absent from your heart.

Then you cross Rainbow Bridge together...
